OREGON SUMMER STAR
A Camp for Youth of Military Families

Does your business support Oregon Military Families?

Thank you for taking a moment to learn a bit about the Tsuga Community Commission (TCC), a nonprofit organization dedicated to serving military-connected children. We are hosting our annual fundraising event in April and looking for Corporate Sponsors to provide these kids with an important summer camp experience free of charge.

Our auction (and you are invited) is set for Saturday April 18th, 2015 at the World Forestry Center in Portland. Support from people like you is vital to the success of this event and the Tsuga Community mission.

2015 is a deployment year for Oregon, and with Oregon being one of only six states without a major military installation there is little support for these families. TCC works to provide a place where Oregon's military-connected can come together and support each other as peers. This custom camp helps kids cope with the life adjustments that come with having a parent deployed. It also provides the non-deployed parent time to reflect and attend to the demands of running a household alone.

Our service-members deserve the peace of mind that their families are being taken care of in their absence. Military children need the stability of a camp community they can belong to as they grow up year after year. For all of these reasons and more, because kids serve too, we hope we can count on your support this year!

Tsuga is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization; most donations are tax deductible – check with your business tax adviser. With the help of you or your company, we can do great things. On the back of this letter are various levels of support we hope your business considers this spring.

Thank you,
